Bouquet for Dr. Clardy.

The Madisonville Hustler, a paper that opposed Dr. Clardy in both his races, now pays him this graceful compliment:

"Dr. Clardy is at home at the present on his farm in Christian county, where he is looking after his wheat and other farm products. Congress is still in session, but there is not much of importance going on there now. It is better for the doctor to be at home looking after the harvesting of his wheat than it is to be staying in Washington where there is nothing to do. The probability is that Dr. Clardy will never again be in Congress as our representative, as he is not a candidate for re-election. We want to say in connection that he has made this district one of the very best of representatives. While it is true that he has not made a national reputation, he did not try to do this, but he has at all times looked after the interests of his constituents. No district in the United States has a more honest and faithful representative than has the Second district of the State of Kentucky. Dr. Clardy may well feel that he will receive the plaudit of 'well done'." It were a pity that every member of both houses was not as faithful, earnest and honest as has been this good man. The Hustler sincerely wishes him a long and happy time yet on earth and with many honors yet to fall to him."

James Myers, of the flagship New York, has written a letter to a friend in Troy, N. Y., from which the following extract was taken:

"Hobson and his men fought bravely to cut their way back to us, killing many Spaniards; but the tide was too strong and they were carried shoreward and taken prisoners of war. The Spanish captain of the Cristobal Colon, came to this ship bearing a flag of truce and told the Admiral that all of our men were alive, but without clothes. We sent them clothes, provisions and money. He also said that our men fought like demons and killed many of their men; that the Spanish Admiral said he never saw such bravery, and kissed everyone of them on the forehead."

The Court of Appeals has settled the contest over the Prison Commission and the new board will enter upon its duties. The court holds that the prison law as passed was valid, except as it applied to the six-year term of Commissioner Fennell. The court held his term was only good for four years. The commissioners are Messrs. George, Richardson and Fennell.

Governor Wolcott, of Massachusetts, has decided to appoint Gen. Miles' son to a lieutenancy in the Fifth regiment, which will go to the front in response to the second call for troops from President McKinley.

Owing to the illness of Major H. B. McClelland his daughter, Miss Mary, will probably deliver the address at the unveiling of the picture of Gen. "Feb" Stuart, of Richmond, Va., to-day.

The Democrats of the Eleventh district have no hope of overcoming a Republican majority of 12,000, but all the same they have nominated L. D. Lewis, of Hyden, to make the race for Congress.

The call on Hon. William M. Reed, to run for Congress, says the Paducah Register, created quite a stir in political circles Wednesday. Mr. Reed is now attending court at Benton.

One American sailor was killed on the Texas while the ships were engaging the Spanish batteries to cover the landing of Shafter's men. This was the only casualty.

In Michigan and South Dakota the Democrats, Silver Republicans and Populists, again agreed upon Fusion tickets and will go in to win over the Gold Republicans.

"Silver Dick" Bland has again been re-nominated in the Eighth Missouri district, for the 14th consecutive term. He has been beaten only once in 26 years.

THE NAVAL CADETSHIP.

Young Hickman Like His Two Predecessors Loses Out.

Dr. Clardy is having a hard time getting a cadet for the Naval Academy. Young Branson, of Owensesboro, was first appointed, but failed on the physical appointment. Then John Cunningham, of Henderson, the alternate, tried and failed on algebra. Next Chris Hickman, of Owensesboro, went on to be examined and yesterday's Inquirer contained this item:

"It is hereby ordered that on the 25th day of June, 1896, at 2 o'clock p.m., standard time, there shall be held at each voting precinct of the Second Congressional district at the usual voting place, a precinct convention for the purpose of appointing delegates to a county convention, which will in turn appoint delegates to a district convention, called to nominate a Democratic candidate for Congress."

2. Each precinct shall be allowed one delegate vote for each 50 votes and fraction over 25 cast for the Bryan electors in 1896; provided that each precinct shall have at least one delegate vote.

3. The delegate's votes of the county shall be "prorated" or divided in such a manner as to express the will of the voters, as shown by their votes in the precinct convention. The representation of the several counties is hereby fixed upon the basis of one delegate vote for each 200 votes cast for Bryan electors in 1896.

4. All persons who support the Bryan electors in 1896, and all persons who desire to come into the regular Democratic organization, and who will agree to support the nominee of the convention, and all persons who are not 21 years of age, who will be entitled to vote at the November election, 1896, and who will agree to support the nominee of the convention herein called, shall be entitled to vote in said precinct convention.

The delegates chosen at said precinct convention on June 25th, shall meet in county conventions at their respective county seats at 2 o'clock p.m., Monday, June 27th, 1896, and appoint delegates to a district convention herein called to assemble in the city of Henderson on Wednesday, June 29, 1896, at 1 o'clock p.m.

The representation of the several counties in said district convention shall be as follows: Christian, 16; Daviess, 25; Hancock, 5; Henderson, 29; Hopkins, 17; McLean, 7; Union, 16; Webster, 12. Necessary to choose, 59 and a fraction.

Carlisle and Stone.

Ex-Congressman W. J. Stone and former Secretary John G. Carlisle are figuring in a case at Philadelphia on trial before Judge Ferguson. Col. Stone wants half of $200,000 fee, for which Edward W. Ayers, as agent, is suing the Richard Wistar estate. The fee is for securing a change of the Government mint site.

As to ex-Secretary Carlisle's knowledge of the matter, his deposition sets forth that his only reason for effecting the change of mint site from Broad and Cherry streets (the Wistar property) to Spring Garden street was Congressman Stone's representation to him that a spring of water under the foundation would endanger the mint's formation, and that as the Wistars objected to selling to the Government there would be vexatious litigation.

A Sign Painter's Luck.

Big luck has come to a private now in camp at Chickamauga, says an exchange. A day or two ago private Alfred J. Lewis, of Company L, First West Virginia regiment, received a telegram from New Orleans announcing the death of his mother. Lewis is the sole heir to the famous Long View plantation, fifty miles from New Orleans, in St. James Parish, Louisiana, on the Mississippi river. It is an immense plantation, one of the largest and richest in all the South. Besides this valuable property, Lewis comes into the possession of $10,000 in cash. Lewis is a young man of about 30, a sign painter by trade.

Mr. Bacon's Funeral.

The remains of the late Wm. J. Bacon, who died at Imboden, Ark., will arrive at Gracey to-night and the funeral and burial will take place at 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon at the old Bacon homestead near that place.

COAST DEFENSE GUNS.

Dr. R. J. Gatling has just invented the most destructive War Weapon of the Age.

It is announced that Dr. R. J. Gatling, of Hartford, Conn., the inventor of the Gatling gun, has invented through his skill and firm a new type of big coast-defense gun for the government at Washington. It will be submitted to a test of 195,000 pounds to the square inch. Dr. Gatling, says Leslie's Weekly, is now 70 years of age. Ericsson anticipated him in the invention.

DR. R. J. GATLING.
Inventor of the Latest Coast Defense Gun.

vention of a new gun, which was invented on the 1st of June, 1860, and gave birth to his genius for inventions suitable to war. Hitherto he had devoted himself to inventions for the industries and the arts; inventions for sowing cottonized and rice and wheat, for thinning cotton plants, for breaking hemp. He had invented a steam plow. The first Gatling gun ever made was made at Indianapolis in 1862. Twelve were used by Gen. Butler on the James river. In 1866 the gun was appropriated by the United States. It is now used by Europeans. It is protected by numerous patents. The original gun fired from 250 to 300 shots per minute, the new gun will use 3000 to 3500 shots per minute. Frequently 200 shots have been fired in 2½ seconds. It is a curious and interesting fact that the inventor of this terrible engine of destruction was prompted to the work by a purely human motive. The idea of such a gun was suggested to him early in the Civil War by the anguish of the great number of soldiers sent home for burial who had died not from bullets, but from disease in the hospitals. It occurred to him that there were too many men in the service. He thought that if something could be invented which would enable one man to do the work of 50, he could save 49 lives at home, and there would be fewer widows and orphans in consequence. Whether Dr. Gatling is satisfied that his invention has accomplished this laudable purpose is not stated.

HORSE AS HOSEMAN.

He is Utilized by the Street Cleaning Department of Cleveland in the Washing Down Process.

The new way of cleaning the streets by washing them down with big streams of water from the fire hydrants has developed a new idea, says the Cleveland World.

But the long line of hose full of water was pretty heavy to drag here and there.

over the rough paving stones in order to get the business end of it where it was needed to bring the full force of the stream to bear on the dirty pavement, and a gang of six or eight or ten men was needed to do the work, all but the two men at the nozzle being needed to pull the hose around. The question was how to save some of the cost of this labor.

The man with the idea simply put some strong straps around the hose end and twelve feet back from the nozzle and hitched a horse to it.

Strange Well in Indiana.

From an abandoned gas well in Madison township, Ind., there has been flowing for several weeks a stream of water which has the effect of purifying everything over which it passes, and pools of copper, hundreds of dollars' worth of copper, are found in the streams running away from the well are turned into stone. Others not having been subject to the water so long are in a partial state of petrification. Weeds growing along it have turned into slate pencils, are brittle and snap into pieces.

A number of specimens have been brought to Minton, Ind., and will be sent to the state geologist for examination, as well as a sample of the water, which is of crystal clearness, and, although tainted with the taste and smell peculiar to gas well water, is not unpleasant to drink.

Uncanny Jewel Boxes.

The native Andamanese women have a curious custom. When one of them becomes a widow she prepares the skull of her deceased husband and carries it about suspended at her side. There is around the skull a small treasure box, in which she places her jewels, her money and other valuable possessions, so far as space will allow.

JAMES MADISON'S DIPLOMA.

Splendid Record of Future President's Scholarship.

A valuable relic came to light in the transfer of the treasures of the congressional library to its beautiful new building. Far down in the chaotic mass of engravings, maps, old newspapers and various productions of the brains and pencils of long ago, was found a piece of parchment, yellow with age, which every American will be interested to read about, and every son of Princeton anxious to see. It is a historic document—the college diploma of James Madison, the fourth president of the United States.

In spite of its great age—125 years—this memento of pre-revolutionary time is as perfect as it was on the 7th day of October, 1771, when it was proudly received by the young patriot from the hands of the famous Dr. Witherspoon, then president of the college of New Jersey—soon to be a signer of the Declaration of Independence—of whom John Adams said: "He is high a son of liberty as any man in America."

Every letter of the quaint Latin in which the diploma was engraved stands out on the old parchment as clearly as the nodal deeds of its signers upon the war-records of their country. Dark clouds were gathering around their heads. "The crush of resounding arms" was soon to be brought to the ears of tutors and students whose names make dear the annals of the revolution.

James Madison was already deeply moved by the controversies between the colonies and the mother country. In the patriotic excitement of the time "The American Whig Society" was formed in Nassau hall, and Madison, at the age of 18, was one of its principal founders. With other students, dressed in black, he burned while the college bell tolled, a letter from the merchants of New York to the merchants of Philadelphia announcing the breaking of an agreement not to import English goods.

In his zeal to win his diploma the youthful patriot nearly ruined his health. He entered in 1768 the College of New Jersey—the name Princeton, bears in its charter of 1746—and by allowing himself for a long period only three hours' sleep out of the 24, completed the course in three years. Dr. Witherspoon remarked to Jefferson of his laborious student that he never knew him to do or say an indecent thing. Young Madison was one of the best orators in the college. He was so broken down by overstudy that the programme for "Commencement day, September 25, 1771," ends with this line:

"Mr. James Madison was excused from taking part in the exercises."

The future president stood very high in his studies. The bit of parchment which he so gallantly won and which has just come to light, reads, freely translated, as follows:

Present and Curators
Of the College of New Jersey,
To all and everyone who may read these letters.

GREETING IN THIS LORD.
Be it known to all and every man, by royal authority committed, to adorn JAMES MADISON, competing candidate for the degree of Bachelor, by previous examination, with the title and degree of Bachelor of the liberal arts, of which the seal of the College of New Jersey affirms the student and our names subscribed bear witness.

Dated in Nassau Hall, 7th day of October, Year of Our Lord 1771.

The signers are President James Witherspoon, Curators Gulichem Franklin, Richard Stockton, Georgeius Bryan, Gulichem P. Smith, Joannes Rodgers, Gulichem Livingston, Jacobus Caldwell and Jeremiah Halsey.

Gulichem, or William, Franklin, was the son of Ben Franklin, and all the others were more or less famous.

Suspended from the diploma by a foot of green ribbon, only slightly faded, is the great round seal of the college, impressed on a paper star. This was made by placing two square pieces of paper together, the ribbon passing between them. The seal was then sewn to the ribbon by silk thread, which is still white, strong and glossy. There is a faint trace of red on the rim of the seal; the ink has faded out; the letters and design are perfectly distinct after more than a century and a quarter.

There were only 12 graduates in Madison's class, but several attained eminence.

Madison's great talent, lofty patriotism, thorough scholarship and intense zeal to serve his country impelled him forward to the illustrious place he filled so acceptably for two terms. He retired to private life in 1817, and died in 1836, aged 85.

The ancient diploma, so fortunately restored to view, will be carefully preserved as an incentive to youth, a reminder of a noble man, and an heirloom from a president whose memory is venerated by all Americans.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

In a Very Bad Way.
"Doctor," said Mr. Spuds, "my insomnia is much worse now than it ever was before."
"Indeed," replied Dr. Paresis.
"Yes, sir, it is. Why I can't even sleep when it is time to get up."

A CHERRY SEED.

Supposed to Have Caused the Death of George Dennis.

George Dennis, youngest son of Dr. J. M. Dennis, died last night of appendicitis, after a week's illness.

His trouble, it is supposed, resulted from swallowing a cherry seed. He was in the country last week at the residence of his uncle, Mr. J. M. Medley, and on Thursday came home sick. He went to bed and it was soon found that his trouble was very serious. He continued to grow worse and death resulted.

He was in his thirteenth year and was an exceptionally bright and promising boy, the pride of his parents.

The funeral services will be held at some time to-morrow, the hour not having been definitely fixed at this writing.

Interment in Hopewell Cemetery.

THE OMAHA STAMPS.

The New Series Now on Sale at the Postoffice.

The Trans-Mississippi stamps, commemorative of the holding of the national exposition at Omaha, are out and are now on sale there. They are in nine denominations, ranging from one cent to two dollars, as follows:

One-cent—"Marquette on the Mississippi," standing in a boat and preaching to the Indians. It is dark green.

Two-cent—"A farm scene in the west, color carmine.

Four-cent—"Indian hunting Buffalo," the color being red brown.

Five-cent—"Fremont on Rocky mountains," bark blue.

Eight-cent—"Troops guarding train," dark lilac.

Ten-cent—"Hardships of Emigration," light brown.

Fifty-cent—"Western Mining prospector," color orange.

One-dollar—"Western cattle in a storm," copper red.

Two dollar—"Harvesting in West," sapphire blue.

The stamps are twice as large as the regular stamps and resemble the Columbian stamps of 1893. The series will be discontinued Dec. 31.

Kentucky captured two Second Lieutenants' places Thursday, the appointees being H. C. Bonnycastle and Dasha Breckinridge.

Treasurer Long announces that he will run through July and August this year without suspending payment until fall taxes come in September. Last year's suspension began April 10.

The recruiting officers are here and they want about twenty or thirty men for the army. Capt. Atkinson has charge of the business. He has with him Sergt. A. J. Chapman, and Privates Frank Prowse, H. H. Hopkins and E. A. Hopkins. They will remain here a few days. —Madisonville Hustler.

Prof. W. L. Eiseman, of Nashville, Tenn., leader of the Vendome Orchestra, has been employed for the coming session by the South Kentucky College to teach violin, violincello, and mandolin.

The people of Hopkinsville are to be congratulated on having the services of this eminent teacher for the coming session.

County Attorney Denny P. Smith, of Trigg county, has gone to Lebanon, Tenn., where he will take a special course in criminal law in Cumberland University, says the Telephone. He will be gone about six weeks or two months. He has made arrangements to have the duties of the County Attorney's office looked after during his absence.

Mr. I. M. Aldridge, of Institute, N. C., has invented a tobacco fly catcher. It is a large tin pan, in which is put water and kerosene oil.

In the center of the basin a lighted lantern with a cover is placed. The light at night attracts the flies against the lantern and they fall into the bath of water and kerosene prepared for them, and that's their finish.—Ex.
